No closure yet on NBN-ZTE controversy

By Gil C. Calabangin Jr., Christian K. Eguerra and Lito B. Salaverria

IT AIN'T OVER UNTIL THE FAT LADY SINGS.

A day after the Supreme Court declared the $329-million National Broadband Network (NBN) project with China's ZTE Corp. moot and void, Justice Leonides Macapagal-Arroyo had cancelled it, her ally, Sen. Joker Arroyo, called for an end to the Senate inquiry into the deal.

But Sen. Alan Peter Cayetano, chair of the blue ribbon committee, said his panel was still waiting for an insider account by former Speaker Jose de Venecia and two other members of the "Greedy Gang"—Investment Fides Reyes and former police officer Quinto "Kido" Arduana.

Cayetano told reporters he was giving De Venecia up to the end of August to make his long-awaited appearance or else the Senate would move on and NO CLOSURE A18

FVR on RP education: It's going to get worse

By Terra Quinsamang

ACCESS TO BASIC EDUCATION among the country's children is bound to get worse with household incomes shrinking amid surging oil and food prices, former President Fidel Ramos said yesterday.

On the sidelines of an international media conference in Manila, Ramos said the drop in primary and secondary school enrollment cited by the National Statistical Coordination Board (NSCB) did not take into account the current economic crunch.

According to the NSCB report released over the weekend, the percentage of children enrolled in primary school dropped to 83 percent in the last school year from 90 percent five years ago. The high school enrollment rate has been flat at 58 percent for the last five years, the agency reported.

'Not enough pressure for her to alter her policy'

By Michael Lim-Uson, TJ Bergin and Kristine L. Alano

FOLLOWING A MEETING with Ricardo Cardinal Vidal and three archbishops last week, President Macapagal-Arroyo has decided to maintain her stand against the use of contraceptives because of the weak lobby for artificial family planning methods, one of her economic advisers said yesterday.

"There are not enough pressures to make her change her policy," Alayon Gov. Joey Salas said in Pasay, Manila, where Ms. Arroyo presided over a Cabinet meeting.

Salas, who had served as chair of the House committee on appropriations, said that during a meeting with select Cabinet officials in Malacañang on Monday Ms. Arroyo "kept insisting that she was just being consistent with her policy."

"Apparently, there are no people going out to the streets calling for her to change it or to be more flexible," he said.

NPA rebels attack GMA security in Masbate

By Michael Lim-Uson and Inquirer Southern Luzon

PLACES, MANIFESTO—A BOMBING attack exploded and firefights erupted between soldiers and communist rebels on several towns yesterday as President Macapagal-Arroyo said her

Cabinet came to Masbate for a meeting on subsidies for the poor amid soaring prices. (See related story on Page A19.)

At least one soldier was killed and two militiamen were wounded in the firefights of violence that occurred in the morning hours before Ms. Arroyo's party arrived, and in the afternoon after her party left for Manila, military and police reports said.

The explosion blew occurred at about 3 a.m. in a barangay of Pinar, some 3.5 kilometers from a school house where Ms. Arroyo was to meet 10 hours later with her Cabinet, including Vice President Noli de Castro.

No one was hurt in the blast that the military said was caused by a bomb. Some police officials said the explosion was caused by a land mine.

Higher rainfall boosts rice output, says agri official

GOOD WEATHER CONDITIONS will most likely mean better-than-expected rice production in the Philippines of about 7.3 million tons in the first half of the year, according to a senior agriculture official.

"Higher rainfall this year allowed farmers to plant in wider areas, unlike last year when there was a drought," Ramon Isidro, director of the Bureau of Agricultural Statistics, told Reuters.

Production of unshelled rice is estimated to have reached 7.3 million tons in January to June, higher than a government target of 7.1 million and the 6.7 million tons produced in the same period of 2007, the agriculture department said in a statement.

The preliminary production data covered only 92 percent of the 1.04 million hectares devoted to rice plant-

THE LAS PIÑAS BOYS CHOIR WAS declared the champion in the children's choir category of the 5th World Choir Games on July 10-14 in Graz, Austria.

But in what was perhaps a more important achievement, the Las Piñas choir was the silver medalist in the second music category against professional choirs whose members were older.

Moreover, many of the choir that participated had 40 to 60 members while the Las Piñas choir had only 20 boys.

Another Philippine choir, the Kilyawan Boys Choir of Quezon City, was declared champion in the adult category of contemporary music category.

Cebu Pacific holds Naia3 'wet run'

By Tara Quintanilla

CEBU PACIFIC AIR (CBA) YESTERDAY conducted full simulation exercises of disaster and arrival flights at the newly built Ninoy Aquino International Airport terminal 3. CBA is to check passenger and baggage flow in preparation for its partial domestic operations next week.

During rehearsal officials called a "wet run," 72 passengers and squads of airline ground crew, medical checks, baggage screening, baggage X-ray and bagging, boarding, deplaning and baggage retrieval at the arrival of the simulated arrival for partial local operations.

"During any wet-run incident, if everything isn't a total failure, we plan to start partial domestic operations here," said CBA spokesperson Candice Lugo.

The airline expects to start operations at Naia 3 on July 28, with daily flights to Manila, Cebu, and other domestic ports, and to start daily flights to other domestic ports, and to start daily flights to other domestic ports.

Foreign experts now in Sibuyan

By Nina Catherine Collaps
Inquirer Staff Writer

SAN FERRANDO, SIBUYAN ISLAND—A three-member team of experts from the European Union arrived here yesterday to assist in the environmental safety assessment of the site where the old prison of the Philippines.

Antonio Ileg, civil protection officer of the European Union, arrived for the three-day tour with Swedish biologist Dr. Rolf Berggren and French marine chemist Dr. Christian Le Pichon.

The team was joined by the Philippine government to help determine how to handle the 18 metric tons of the toxic radioactive waste that remain in the bulk of the atomic ferry, in addition to an estimated 100,000 liters of leaked fuel.

"They were brought from the Tagbilaran Airport on Sibuyan Island by the Philippine Coast Guard and brought for a brief survey of the wastes."

The ferry sank at the bridge of Typhoon "Susi" last June 21 with over 200 people on board.

The European team then proceeded to a temporary laboratory set up at the site of the abandoned ferry terminal. The Department of Agriculture has a portable radiography machine, which performs radiography analysis of toxic chemicals.

The European experts said their goal was not to conduct more tests but to help analyze immediate test data gathered by government agencies.

In a previous interview, however, Bureau of Plant Industry director Nestor Pineda said the experts said that they have yet to start work.

The agency—the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquaculture and the Marine Environment Protection Commission of the Philippine Coast Guard—were reportedly conducting daily tests but none of the samples had been submitted to the laboratory, he said.

Saint Basil Ferry chair Michael Delacruz had announced on Monday that opening day for Terminal 3 would be on July 23 but that officials gave no comment on the schedule earlier.

Moving to bigger facility

The new west endway after CBA, a major domestic carrier, signed a "wet lease" agreement with the Manila International Airport Authority (MIAA) for start-up operations at the then-terminal terminal.

While it has yet to become a formal contract, the agreement allowed CBA to start its operations daily flights within six months to a year, said MIAA development and corporate affairs chief Tim Berman.

A similar arrangement is currently being finalized with Baguio's Philippine Airlines' budget brand Air Express, Berman added.

Short of flying

During yesterday's simulation, CBA used an A330 plane that arrived in Manila at around 7 p.m. CBA is to operate daily flights. For passengers were given strict tickets for check-in and boarding. Several passengers, including deplaning and baggage overhead were also checked.

Airline and airport officials called the simulation the most comprehensive test yet, short of the plane actually taking off from Naia 3, to prepare for the start of the new passenger check-in and baggage procedures.

Since it is not to open next week after six years of delay because of legal and structural problems, MIAA Director general of the terminal was completed in 2002 but the facility remained shut because of various construction, airport officials said the partial opening would push on despite pending legal cases. 'Halal' cuisine to lure Muslim tourists to RP spots – Durano

By Margaret C. Devlin

MAKING HEALTH-CLOSING BUSINESS available in market destinations will encourage more exports from Muslim countries to visit the Philippines.

This is according to officials of the Department of Tourism (DOT), who yesterday stressed the need to intensify the promotion and well-known hotel food.

Global fund would help the country get a bigger share of the global Muslim tourist market, said Tourism Secretary Anwar Hossain.

*There is a need to make eye

Muslim leaders and teachers were welcomed by having their establishments cater to their dietary requirements," Burns said in a statement.

The DOT co-sponsored the recent National Retail Convention held at the Philippine Trade Training Center in Pasay City.

The two-day event gathered 600 local and national government officials, Muslim religious leaders and experts, food manufacturers and exporters, certification professionals, local and international civil group representatives and diplomats to discuss issues on improving

The production of seal access to the hill found to keep symptomatic groups in the mountain.

"The department is striving to help make hotel routine available in our tourist destinations in anticipation of the influx of travel from Malaysia and the Gulf States," said DOT director for product research and development, Elizabeth Sells.

The department implements a community-wide program that addresses the prevention and promotion of good meals and food practices in hotels, restaurants, canteens and clubs.

Statement of Solidarity and Support

We, the undersigned insurance companies, commit our full support and participation in the new and much-improved system of procuring compulsory third party liability (CTPL) insurance coverage for motor vehicles being registered with the Land Transportation Office (LTO).

Our support goes to the Integrated Insurance Registration System as proposed by the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) and approved for implementation under department order 2007-28 issued by the Department of Transportation and Communications (DOTC) on July 5, 2007.

We take note of the adoption of the GSIS CTPL Reform Program by the Insurance Commission (IC) as reflected in the memorandum of agreement dated July 1, 2008, which the IC signed with the DOTC, LTO, GSIS and STRADCOM.

This expression of solidarity is in line with our goal to provide the public only the best insurance products for their needs. Likewise, the time has come to put an end to the long-festering problem of the proliferation of fake CTPLs.

PNP to roll out electric patrol carts

By Arlene Papa

SUGGESTION OF THE HONORABLE CLARENCE, THE Philippine National Police has rolled out an electric cart to ease patrol work and make the duty of stopping and monitoring vehicles easier and less tiring.

"This prototype patrol cart is powered by electricity and does not use gasoline as we use in our cars," said the director, who said the cart is a pilot project to see if it can be the force's contribution to the fight against pollution.

Noise-free

The national police chief personally toured the vehicle around Camp Crame on Monday morning. It was easy to drive, he said, and did not need parking permits.

Unlike the more recent motorized patrol cars, however, the patrol vehicle is not noisy, he pointed out. It will still have to undergo field tests to determine its feasibility as a permanent feature of police work around the country.

The cart comes equipped with hand and tail lights and police radios but does not have doors. It also has two seats, designed with a top speed of 20 kph.

"It is not intended to run after criminals but only to patrol the streets in part of its intended police use," he said.

He said that if it proved more useful in the 1980's fleet of vehicles, it would cut down on the force's dependence on gasoline and fuel. Previously, the PNP had to import fuel for its patrol cars.

Saipan back pay for RP workers

SAIPAN, P.R.—The U.S. Department of Labor is seeking 151 Philippine construction workers who are owed $250,000 in back wages by a company in the Northern Mariana Islands.

The department says the company is now available under an agreement it reached with labor.

The workers were employed by Indaba between March 20, 1985, and Dec. 7, 2000, in the U.S. commonwealth. It is about 3,000 miles from Manila.

Labor Department officials say the workers were

Pope goes techie, sends daily txts to youths

By Margaret A.

When you the Pope's surprise gift, the Pope of Rome, "Pope" will be the first of the city's Pope.

Local television giant Telebis has received eight extra hours of airtime to broadcast the Pope's arrival in Manila. The Pope will be in Manila for the first time since his arrival in Manila in 1981. The Pope will be in Manila for the first time since his arrival in Manila in 1981.

Four giant screens have also been set up to show the Pope's arrival in Manila. The Pope will be in Manila for the first time since his arrival in Manila in 1981. The Pope will be in Manila for the first time since his arrival in Manila in 1981.

For tech-savvy youth

A different message of hopefulness from the Pope would be sent by SMS (short message service) each day. The Pope will be in Manila for the first time since his arrival in Manila in 1981. The Pope will be in Manila for the first time since his arrival in Manila in 1981.

"We wanted to make MYDYM a unique experience by using new ways to connect with today's tech-savvy youth," said Pope Benedict XVI's personal secretary, Cardinal Giovanni D'Ercole.

The World Youth Day celebration has been held in different cities around the globe since 1984. It is an attempt to inspire and challenge the youth of the world.

An opening Mass was due to be held by the Pope of Australia's Catholic Church, Cardinal George Pell, later on Tuesday.

A papal Mass will close the celebration on Sunday at the Sydney Convention Centre, which is the Pope's "home" in Sydney.

Surveys' done

Also on Tuesday, an Australian survey of youth done last January found that many young people are "unhappy" in people taking part in the Sydney Catholic Church's youth festival.

"Surveys, based down on the opening day of the World Youth Day, gave the way for surveys to be done on the youth and the youth's views on the youth festival." said the Pope's personal secretary, Cardinal Giovanni D'Ercole.

"These findings must help us to respond to the challenges of youth and the youth's views on the youth festival." said the Pope's personal secretary, Cardinal Giovanni D'Ercole.

Against Pope's policies

"We now have a lot more confidence in the Pope's policies against condoms use, against abortion, against homosexuality, and against the death penalty." said the Pope's personal secretary, Cardinal Giovanni D'Ercole.

"We are glad that the Pope's visit to the Philippines has been a challenge to the youth and the youth's views on the youth festival." said the Pope's personal secretary, Cardinal Giovanni D'Ercole.

Palace OKs citizens' arms vs illegal logging

'The soonest this is done, the better for the environment'

LEGISLATION CITY...PRESIDENT Macapagal-Arroyo and her government advisers have agreed to let a citizens' body to fight against illegal logging in the Sierra Madre mountain ranges, the head of a Church-based forest protection watchdog said yesterday.

The move, according to his, Peter Montalano, came in the wake of the apparent failure of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources and other government agencies to stop illegal logging in the area. Montalano heads the Task Force Sierra Madre (TFSM), the civil Bulwag Bulwag: Siya Yuma and a delegation from northern Quezon met with Mr Arroyo last month in Malacanan and voiced serious concern on continued illegal logging in Sierra Madre.

Montalano said the delegation "pressed" the President's office, really happening in Sierra Madre. He said logging continued despite the replacement of community environmental and natural resources officers in those areas. And, Quezon and Dagupan in Ilocos provinces—areas where loggers get in close to Sierra Madre.

During the meeting, he said, Mr Arroyo, Environment Secretary Zosimo Abueva said the delegation agreed to form the Citizens

PETER MONTALANO

Independent Monitoring Team (CIT) to prevent further logging in the mountains.

His team would be assigned to Quezon and the other areas.

Montalano said he believed that government officials and employees of the DENR and logging syndicates had been a major factor in the continued destruction of the mountains.

Florida, head of the Palawan Chapter of DENR, also blamed the DENR for the continued destruction of Sierra Madre.

Last week, the TFSM issued a letter and submitted names of members to compare the citizens' list with the group it assigned the DENR staff to implement the investigation.

The letter asked DENR to allow the CIT to investigate and have access to all documents in the DENR based in southern Quezon and Aurora from 2005-2008. It asked DENR to release documents regarding Logging, Mining and Forests, where illegal logging has been reported.

The CIT also wants to have the government investigate and intervene DENR personnel in the area and other local government officials suspected of involvement in illegal logging.

Montalano said they were also grateful that Mr Arroyo ordered the constitution, as a matter of "public policy" at the controversial 22-year Integrated Forestry Management Agreement (IFMA) between the government and logging firms.

"The sooner this is done, the better for the environment," he said. Zosimo Z. Abueva, Jr., Inspector General, DENR Region I.

The case of the Pinoy Dillinger

Ex-toughie turns to law to get life back on track

By Russell Ararso
Times City

DURA CASE, HARD CASE (THE law is hard but it is still the law).

No lawyer will ever dispute the track of this principle, but in Pinoy "Dillinger" Guevarra, 54, a former convict whose life story became a blockbuster movie in 1996, this sentence is a different one.

Born poor on Feb. 20, 1944, in San Diego, California in Manila City, Guevarra learned early on that the law is indeed hard—but not only upon the land, the "remnant of the earth."

"The law is just blind. If it once was, it is now it was killed in the early and the late times being done in the past," he says.

If he sounds bitter with the country's legal system, these people do not know the true story behind the issues about his life.

"Watching my movie (1996) 'Dillinger ng Bayan Mo' which started August 1997, I thought that the only true thing is it was my movie, the one seen past him," says Guevarra.

But his family were civil. "I would not object because I signed a contract that allowed this producer to make additional expense that would enhance the commercial value of the film," he says.

Tempting

The movie adds more when he had already added to pursue his childhood dream of becoming a lawyer and had enrolled at the Manila Law College. He was "too much in need of money to take any shortcut," he says.

His son, supposed to receive P20,000 as a wedding gift was hospitalized by a friend who was with him at the time of the accident.

Shortly thereafter, at 34, Guevarra returned to his poverty job in the way of his education. And so from Grades 1 to 3, he was at the top of his class.

"One morning, in his final year at the then St. Ignace's School in Manila City, a classmate wrote on the blackboard: 'Matatag p...no. Malinis, matatag ng...no.'"

His classmate during the previous afternoon, his teacher accused him of plagiarizing the poem and was taken into a bathroom stall.

"Could no longer take the blow and I pulled out a small note from my shirt pocket and threatened her with it," Guevarra says.

Curly mistakes

"It mistake, a curly mistake," he says. The incident would not off a chain of unfortunate events, opening more than a decade that would culminate in his being sentenced to life in prison.

As to graduate education, he ended up third on the list of his classmates who took a magazine upon him before the school principal.

"So this education I would have been able to pursue my secondary education on scholarship, but as things turned out, I had to stop studying," he says.

He worked up and walked 30 km to Angeles City where he stayed on scholarship and worked as a chamberlain.

In Angeles, he befriended a United States Air Force captain stationed at Clark Air Base who offered him a job as a "yard boy" inside the base.

Life went smoothly for a while, but when the American friend left for the US he would soon move and find himself being arrested at a neighborhood that would not be his home.

"Two paid men took a television set in my house. I was told to go to the police station. Instead of looking for the thieves, the base officers arrested me and took me to a nearby Philippine Constabulary detention house where I was turned into a prisoner," Guevarra says.

Parole

On Sept. 30, 1964, he was detained at the Angeles City Jail. He moved to escape but was arrested and sent to the provincial jail in San Francisco, Pangasinan.

He tried to escape again but was again caught. To his third attempt to break prison, he was charged on both law and placed in solitary confinement.

Guevarra's first taste of prison "honor" (the five or eight) was at the reception and diagnostic center of the New Bilibid Prison (NBP) in Muntinlupa where he was released in December 1966.

After a month in Muntinlupa, Guevarra and 72 other prisoners were sent to the Bilibid Prison and West Point in Oriental Mindoro, where he witnessed the arrest of "honor" prisoners and their trial.

"While from prison officials, the colony was composed of inmates and 'honor' prisoners (prisoners who were given authority to supervise work at the colony)," he says.

At the colony, Guevarra would endure physical and psychological beatings but would also find his place among working criminals as the most handsome of them all.

He was many of his fellow inmates' friend of tuberculosis as a result of malnutrition and the beating they got.

Through a friend who was a doctor, he was able to "join" a group of inmates who were given a "prison assignment" because Guevarra during his two-year stay at the colony got rid of the remnants of such cases, he says.

"Sometime in May 1966, one of the inmate prisoners ordered me to work with him, but since I had already been working for four hours straight that day I was already dead. He lost me on July 1966 after the fighting that he from the inmates. I could report, my friend could not tell me."

was and ended and killed him," he says. "The victim's companion accused Guevarra who would have been lynched if not for the arrival of prison officials. He was brought before prison authorities to whom he recounted the abuse being committed on him at the prison colony."

At present, Guevarra was placed on solitary confinement for seven months.

Celebrity

When Guevarra was brought back to the prison, he was already a "celebrity" because of his story about his life in the prison colony.

"I defied the system inside the prison colony in Bilibid by killing a devoted prison policeman. That was something no inmate's do if one wanted to live. Just I did it," he says.

"These days were the worst in Bilibid. He, with two of his friends, almost every day for the inmates' freedom. I had to use my head to survive. I learned my lesson with a moral that to work off hard work. My enemies were punished. Most afraid, they had weapons could prevent me from this."

"To lead the gangs inside the NBP, Guevarra says, one needed to cultivate an image of leadership."

In those gang wars Guevarra figured prominently. He was, after all, the leader of one of the most famous gangs, the Sigambra Squad.

In 1967, after he was sentenced to life in prison as a result of the death of his inmate friend, he was arrested in an attack in 1967. Guevarra would be given the name "Dillinger" after American gangster John Herbert Dillinger, who became the national hero of lawlessness in the Philippines.

Turning point

The turning point in Guevarra's life came in 1971 when prison guard-inmate Melito Guevarra, nicknamed by breaking prison among the working gangs.

While Guevarra of the inmate being involved in NBP-Guevarra prison inmate religious activities, he also sought the help of high-ranking Guevarra who had been his teacher in the Manila Law College.

In 1985, the Department of Education, Culture and Sports, the State College of Law and the National Police College withdrew a program for prison inmate who wanted to pursue their college education.

Guevarra took the DICS (Department of Education and Culture) exam.

In 1990, he was released by the Board of Prisons and Parole after 26 years in prison. In 1991, he received his degree in the Philippines from the Philippine State University of the Philippines (PSU).

"But although I was not in prison and already a holder of college degree, I was not able to find any job in Manila. Guevarra would say I was average and an 'O'-class," he says.

On the advice of a prison official, Guevarra decided to take up law and sought more money. He began to study at the Manila Law College.

"In Manila I had seen as a law student, he created a bad name and achieved no 20 percent of his class average."

He ended his law degree and was given of student position by then President Fidel Ramos in 1995 and never filed his application to take the bar examinations in 1996 and 1997.

The Supreme Court denied both applications in 1997 and 1998 on the ground of moral turpitude.

"After considering my political parties, all of my rights, civil and political, have been restored to me. I do not know why the Supreme Court should not try to put together my dream under the law," he says.

Kings, Masters go for the kill

By Henry R. Castillo

MANILA—AGAINST A TEAM THAT also doesn't know the word quit, Evans' teamwork surely King Uchiro knows that a Filipino player won't get the job done.

"We need to come out and search their strategy if we want to get this done with," Uchiro said after winning a late 5th. Last night's game was the first time Uchiro knew that a Filipino player won't get the job done.

"We also need to play defense at least as they do."

Uchiro, who has lost 11 of his 12 games in the 430-pm game at the Ynares Center tonight, is looking for a win to get in the better position to win the 1st round of the 2009-10 season.

The 2009-10 season is 17 games early and ended in 1st round of the 2009-10 season. Uchiro's last win was in the 1st round of the 2009-10 season.

Black-and-blue Evans puts on yellow jersey

HAUTAGAN, FRANCE—A BRISBANE AND now Cadel Evans took the yellow jersey at the Tour de France after teammate Peter Dinklage won a punishing climb through the Pyrenees to capture the 14th stage on Monday.

Evans, the 25-year-old British leader and one of the favorites, topped the race from his teammate and has a new second lead over Frank Schleck.

The performance was even more striking because Evans took the lead a day after crashing badly in Sunday's stage, losing the Australian with race leaders and causing him to momentarily lose his Tour title.

"I still can't believe it. I couldn't believe it and I couldn't believe it that in the process," he said.

Evans will take the lead into the first two days of the Tour, the first two days of the Tour.

INQUIRER EXCLUSIVE: Angelo Que writes from Royal Birkdale

Settling into the Open mind-set

(Outgoing) Philippines Open champion Angelo Que is the first PG to play in the British Open, starting today in 19 years. This is his day from Royal Birkdale. The Open starts Wednesday. ... All

By Angelo Que, as told to Phil Webb for the Inquirer

THIS WAS TOTALLY DIFFERENT from yesterday. We went out for a practice round only this morning and the weather was a bit more ball game—overcast.

... I am settling into a mind-set in which I know what I will need to do here depending on the conditions.

Required ball flight: After the round, I for the driving range to keep working on my grip, particularly the ball flight required while hitting in to the hole and (sometimes) in to the green or in the range because you actually get to see the hole that you normally see, so just regular range balls. It is quite ordinary.

I also picked up some new equipment from my sponsor, Callaway, as well as my new limited-edition Open Championship bag. That is something really special.

The evening was great too. I was part of the "Best of the World" event in a Callaway Ryder Cup-style event today. It was a bit of a challenge to find a local player to play with, but we were good. Craig Perry, Pongy Marking and Danny Olson are my team and we beat a team that included Michael Campbell, Nick Dougherty and Gabe Murrells. It was a great and a great experience to have a friendly competition like that during the week.

The prize was there to be won and the whole atmosphere was really exciting.

I will take the morning off tomorrow to relax and then play in the afternoon to familiarize myself with the conditions here in the day. I imagine it will be different.

At least I have enough warm clothing.

Dottie out to win 3rd crown

By Jerry Arnesen

ARNESEN: Dottie Murrells.

SUN DIEGO—SEEKING a third consecutive victory, Dottie Murrells is the player to watch in the 48th edition of the Callaway Junior World Championships in this golf course around the coastal southern California city.

There are 12 age-group fields to be played over the next three days by a select number of players who qualify in one of the world's biggest youth tournaments, 1,000-plus players.

If there are five players in the field, Dottie is a favorite; when there are more, she is a contender.

"I can't wait to go home and see my dad again," Arnesen, one of the first 125 players at the event, said. "I just want to have something to show my dad."

Arnesen slipped the official practice round on Monday and opted for a light workout in the range instead. All but five practice rounds were held on Tuesday.

"We will cheer the Sun," Arnesen said. "Dottie Murrells will be a winner to the players here."

Murrells' team has already produced 10 winners in the Callaway Junior World Championships since 1970.

The Philippine delegation is supported by Philippine Airlines, Sunwing, Diamond Motors, Coca-Cola and KFC.

Sunwing, the international airline, also has 100 employees on the ground here.

Those include Miguel Tabares, who is a local addition to the team, because he is a member of the team, because he is a member of the team, because he is a member of the team.

Arnesen also helps the players here. They spend the past week in the Callaway Junior World Championships, which is a 10-day event.

Gov't raised P42.9B more from VAT

By Nicholas R. Romo

THE GOVERNMENT GENERATED P42.9 billion in additional revenue from the imposition of the 12 percent value-added tax in the first five months of the year, the Department of Finance said in a statement last week after its members of the House tonight committed.

Of the five-month additional VAT collection, the DOF said P14.6 billion came from the Bureau of Internal Revenue while P28.3 billion came from the Bureau of Customs.

The DOF says VAT on domestically produced goods and imported services, while the BIR charges VAT on imported goods.

The DOF said the continued imposition of the 12 percent VAT by the government for at least 10 years is the only way to ensure that the country's economic growth is sustainable.

Can SSS members trust Neri?

MANILA, Philippines — A 1998 demand agreement, which calls for the resignation of the then SSS president and chief executive officer of the Social Security System (SSS), is still in effect.

Judging from his bio-data, Neri is not even qualified for his new post. Graduate of a business school, he earned a Master's Degree in Business Administration, majoring in Finance, at the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA). His education background is truly impressive.

His work experience includes his stint as a senior manager at the SSS, but he is a bright guy who should be able to make heads and tails of the financial and investment situation of the Social Security System, if he studies hard enough, he should be able to understand the financial and investment background of the system.

Neri's career posting is a full-time job. But, he will also hold a so-called director of government-owned corporations, which may look remote to each other, but are actually entirely different concerns.

In a sense, naming the SSS to Neri is a serious demand that he is not even qualified to be the head of the SSS. But the SSS is a government-owned corporation, and the only government agency to the SSS was the P200,000 appropriation to fund money back in 1997. Additionally, the SSS is a government-owned corporation, and the only government agency to the SSS was the P200,000 appropriation to fund money back in 1997.

I seriously doubt Neri can make the SSS a government-owned corporation, but he will certainly be brought to task on his job by politicians of all colors and stripes. Neri has refused to give in to political pressure. Misconduct toward his colleagues for being "uncooperative."

The last part of the SSS's mission is to ensure that the SSS is a government-owned corporation, and the only government agency to the SSS was the P200,000 appropriation to fund money back in 1997.

Mercedes-Benz C-Class worldwide market leader since start of year

STUTTGART—IN THE YEAR since its market launch, the new Mercedes-Benz C-Class is confirming the success story of the premium brand: more than 300,000 customers have purchased either a sedan or station wagon variant of the new model since its official introduction on March 21, 2007.

"The sales got off to an excellent start, and even its presence at dealer fairs at the end of last year, the new C-Class station wagon has also been enjoying high popularity," says Dr. Marc Marz, executive vice president for Sales and Marketing, Mercedes-Benz Cars.

Peaked growth rates

"Both models, in fact, have peaked growth rates of 70 percent on the corresponding periods from the prior year since their respective launches. As a result, the new C-Class has been the worldwide leader in its market segment since the beginning of 2008."

German customers also are very enthusiastic about the new C-Class. According to Germany's Federal Motor Transport Authority, the model was again the top-selling vehicle in the mid-range segment in April.

The most important markets for the C-Class is Germany, which accounts for 28 percent of total sales, followed by the United States, United Kingdom, Italy and South Africa. A total of 290,000 C-Class cars have been sold worldwide since market launch in the spring of 2007, and 28,000 customers have taken delivery of a new C-Class station wagon since that model variant was introduced in December.

Successful features

A particularly successful feature of the new C-Class is the nine optional differentiations between the models: three engine variants. In the first year of sales, more than 400,000 C-Class customers in Germany chose the Amalgam line and in other countries the share of total sales amounted to more than 40 percent.

"The response of our customers to the sporty design of the C-Class Amalgam even exceeded our expectations. This new product strategy makes the vehicle very attractive to the most diverse customer within the homogeneous C-Class customer base, and it also enables us to win over new customers to the Mercedes-Benz brand," he says.

Along with the new model's distinctive design, C-Class customers are also captivated by the vehicle's dynamic characteristics, which feature a distinctive driving rhythm that also allows great comfort. Other major selling points include a five-speed automatic transmission system with BlueShift, and a new longitudinal front suspension system.

In addition, the station wagon takes the trademark strengths of the sedan—lending safety, agility and comfort—and combines them with a significant increase in spaciousness and versatility with maximum cargo capacity of 1,500 liters, the new station wagon offers more space than any other premium station wagon in its segment.

Given all these attributes, it's not surprising that the C-Class station wagon was also the top-selling model in its segment in Germany last April.

Mercedes awards

The new C-Class model received two international German and international awards since its premiere. For example, the C-Class continuously leads its competitors in Germany's largest survey for the most popular automobile in January 2008, winning this year's prestigious GfK award.

Environmental certificate

The new Mercedes-Benz C-Class sedan and station wagon are the first cars in their market segment to come with a environmental certificate.

In addition, studies of the TÜV find that the new C-Class has the most spacious interior, while the publication of the most spacious mid-range model. When it comes, the TÜV also has confirmed the vehicle's maximum responsible development of the sedan.

The latest further advances across the entire vehicle line-up in key areas including fuel consumption, exhaust gas emissions, and the materials used in its manufacture. Mercedes-Benz is the only automaker worldwide to have received this demanding environmental certificate.

The new C-Class sports coupe arrived at dealerships in late April, Europe last month. Among other things, the model series will offer customers an additional entry-level variant in the Mercedes-Benz model family. The C-Class sports appearance already is in sport, as the vehicle's front and rear suspension is redesigned in keeping with the silhouette's sleeker design.

Meets high standards

The C-Class also meets the high standards for safety, comfort, environmental compatibility and functionality that are a hallmark of Mercedes-Benz. The model's technical highlights include an all-new direct steering system for even greater agility while cruising, state-of-the-art infotainment systems with a color display and a more powerful four-cylinder engine that now delivers 125 hp, 100 km/h in 10.9 seconds.

The C-Class is the successor to the C-Class sports coupe, which has been purchased by approximately 120,000 motorists worldwide since 2000. The majority of these customers were new to Mercedes-Benz. With its rate of approval nearly 70 percent new customers, the sports model is a very successful model in the Mercedes-Benz product offering.

In addition, the two-door sports car has succeeded in keeping established customers loyal in the Mercedes-Benz brand, and over 80 percent of those who purchased it subsequently bought an even larger Mercedes-Benz model. C-Class sedans are produced in Germany at Mercedes-Benz plants in Stuttgart/Bochum and Bremen.

Mitsubishi to start selling electric cars next summer

MITSUBISHI MOTORS CORP. is looking to introduce its electric car to customers in Japan from summer 2009, slightly ahead of schedule, building on strong interest and record-high fuel prices, the NADA recently said.

The Japanese automaker, one of the first companies to develop electric cars, had said it would begin offering the zero-emission car, called i-MiEV, initially to fleet customers next summer and to individuals no later than 2010.

A spokesman said the company was still studying the timing of the launch to customers, and a 2009 roll-out remained possible.

Mitsubishi Motors has said the vehicle can, based on the NADA, go 100 miles on a full charge, and is expected to cost 2.3 million yen ($22,420-28,180).

Due to limitations of energy storage capacity in batteries, electric cars have a short cruising range, and Mitsubishi may need to find short-distance driving.

Mitsubishi Motors Co. and Renault SA are also aggressively pursuing the possibility of electric cars, although it has not done a prototype yet.

On Wednesday, the Franco-Japanese alliance agreed a deal with Peugeot to promote electric cars, including smaller agreements with Intel and Bosch.

Mitsubishi is looking to commercialize electric cars first in Japan and the United States in 2010.

The 2008 Mitsubishi i-MiEV electric car is expected to be sold in Japan next summer.

2008 i-MiEV is built at an angle.

and side airbags in the first row, two more airbags that extend in the second row and air for the driver's knee; adaptive front-lighting system; 10 airbags; and a 100-hp engine, as well as some lighting controls.

Think the 2008 Lexus ES is just a pretty face?

Mitsubishi made sure it also delivers sporty driving dynamics as well as good value for its cost by putting in just 160 hp in the ES 350, 3.5-liter V6.

The 2008 Lexus ES 350 has 200-hp, 3.5-liter V6 engine in the most powerful of its segment, delivering 155 horsepower (at 6,000 rpm).

Lighter engine

Admission was extremely low for the 2008 Lexus ES 350, as the cylinder head, cooling system, engine and 27-hp lighter than the previous generation model than its four-door sedan.

Aside from the improvements done on the engine, the car is also built on a longer wheelbase and wider track (although with a slightly shorter overall length than its predecessor).

Such a platform, shared with the Mitsubishi Outlander sport utility vehicle, contributed to the 2008 Lexus ES's stellar chassis and solid, stable handling capability as well as more road-bugging attitude.

Indeed, such a new steering rack and integrated suspension system, the 2008 Lexus ES should appeal to younger buyers seeking quiet driving. In fact, for the next week for the next week, the car's much-improved build quality and improved luxury options should definitely lead them to the ES's debut.

Our designers add flair to outdoor living in Frankfurt fair

Text and photos by Alex Y. Vergara

AS MORE AND MORE Europeans take to "outdoor living," the region's lucrative furniture and home accessories market is slowly spilling over from the living rooms to the lawn and beyond in a literal way.

Not several leading Filipino manufacturers and designers are responding to this trend by producing "outdoor-looking" high-end pieces designed to withstand the elements or blend with the outdoors.

Just if the recently concluded "Gartenjahr 2008," a fair to our event held annually in Frankfurt, Germany, was any indication, Filipino were again in vogue with the Europeans. Among their featured pieces was modernized chairs fabricated from water-resistant "synthetic" fabric and synthetic fibers that mimicked the feel and color of rattan, by Invivo and Locus International. At the high-end end, water features and garden pieces made of recycled materials, by Arnejo, Inc.

Color-based companies Jansen like the "Gartenjahr," which featured modern-inspired accent pieces made of recycled plastic, and Cullin, Inc., which did copyright images fabricated from recycled plastic, several companies exhibited garden plastic, which generated their fair share of inquiries.

Mirror objects, either framed in mirror glass or made of polished stainless steel or fashioned, futuristic-style, modernism and cable accessories, by Peter and Paul, Inc. and Not Five Shady, Inc., respectively, also had their share. The latter has been joining the Frankfurt event for almost 20 years now.

"I would have stopped joining a long time ago if this fair didn't produce results," said Peter Abella, owner and designer of Peter and Paul. "No matter how established you are, you have to be constantly out there to generate new buyers."

MANALO Coast's sales agent subtly coaxed us to complement the leader's life-sized, weather-resistant driftwood pool table to the space, providing an elegant yet casual and comfortable feel.

'Outback chic' defines Batangas hideaway

FUTURE RESIDENTS OF Pico de Lera Cove in Manila Coast can look forward to leaving their busy city lives for tranquil weekends. At this premier eco-tourism project in Marikina, Batangas, the promise of true relaxation is in the designs of all the condo units and facilities in development.

According to project leader designer Maayo Nakano, the units carry an "outback chic" mood with earthy colors to complement the fine sand, weather-washed driftwood and natural rocks and provide an elegant yet casual and comfortable feel.

Even the selection of furniture and furnishings are made simple, a bit rustic but most of all, eco-friendly. Weather-washed wood, single long-suspension pendant light and natural materials are also used for this purpose.

"The purpose of the unit is a second home. It is more congenial to the owner, rather casual, surrounding the people who would escape their homes as their holiday escape from the hurried and stressful city life. It has a very informal atmosphere. We like the congenial to their needs. Their and come out fresh and recharged after spending time there," explains Nakano.

Manalo Coast unit one is located in the country's largest integrated resort community with a balanced mix of residential, commercial and recreational amenities. The property boasts of thousands of hectares of well-kept land, 15 acres of varying sites, shapes and character, prime beach, limestone cliffs, virgin forests and rock formations.

"The design does not compete with nature. You could look out into your balcony and you feel secure from where you are standing. No bright colors or odd shapes to distract you from nature. You come to this place to appreciate and be with nature. The static and emotional look of the design will hopefully be mirrored in the owner's age and the peace of mind to be gained. Not much complicated upkeep and maintenance is required," adds Nakano.

Other facilities such as Pico de Lera Beach & Country Club carry the same architecture, which is nature and the interior almost blend as one and character does not lose defined. "There are less a prime consideration in all the design in this development. Nature could be one best friend if treated and appreciated properly," he says.

Manalo Coast is an eco-tourism project of Costa del Marillo Inc., a subsidiary of TM Investments Corp.

New Bicol hotels

THE OPENING OF HOTEL Vesta in Legazpi City recently and inauguration of Discovery Bay Manila in Cagayan Island, adding to the four-star quality of 2008 are part of the expansion of H&M Resorts in the Bicol region.

The Vesta opening follows the upgrading of the Innkeeper hotel in Legazpi City. For this renovation, guest rooms were updated with LCD monitors, cable channels and Wi-Fi facilities. Also renovated were lounge rooms and Club Sun terrace restaurant, which showcases the regional cuisine with an Italian twist.

"Grand Vesta will introduce a new level of service and style that will appeal to both business and leisure travelers to this booming city," said Annette Marasigan, president of H&M Resorts.

Vesta, which incorporates complimentary 90-ft in public space and high-speed Internet access in all guest rooms for a limited fee, has three flexible meeting spaces. It also features a swimming pool and business center.

Located in the heart of Legazpi City, it is only two minutes away from the airport and is close to several business and government offices. The hotel offers complimentary shuttle service to and from the airport and also offers package tours of Mount Mayon, cave adventures, whale shark encounters, half-day city tours, among others.

Discovery Bay Manila has been accredited by the United Nations World of the World (UNWTO). It will feature separate villas facing the beach or poolside. Amenities include 3211 internet with cable channels, DVD/CD players, lounge hammocks, iPod docks, satellite TV, and Wi-Fi access in public spaces. Services include 24-hour butler service, pool and beach barbers, 24-hour room service and concierge.

and trained old ones you're still in business. The latter is easier than by growing them something new every day."

But The Quality comes and designer Luis Flores has been joining late in the US for years now, but it was only last second time to present in Frankfurt. Like most of his fellow Filipino exhibitors, Flores learned the first time they company directly receive any form of government support.

"We have to work not on our own to offer markets because we are going to the fair for us," he said. "I consider myself lucky because my first time-inspired products have found a really market in Europe and the Middle East."

Her products "take interest" from her back markets. But while European market has more, another finished products, finds go for these and international styles.

Shift to Europe

Even before the ongoing recession in the US because a half decade-long Asian Export has been aggressively in search of new markets in Europe. Thanks to its leader's knowledge, the company is able to receive offers of the much dollar and the current downturn in US demand.

"The US has been our major market for the longest time," said Leticia Infante, one of the company's account specialists. "But we can't afford to ignore Europe, more so now, because our US market has been shrinking."

More, if not all, the exhibitors also have to look for it in Manila. Through the years, however, attention among buyers and sellers in these has been declining, making it necessary for them to show abroad, especially in Frankfurt.

Each Filipino company in Frankfurt regularly spends somewhere between P400,000

RENE Arana of Power and Paul, Inc., and his company's new outdoor and P600,000—a fraction perhaps of what they would normally spend in food and ingredients—on both the city's shows.

Despite the considerable expense, one reason exhibitors like Rene Arana of Lucio International that established their abroad well-worth the investment.

Produced by Museo Frankfurt and organized locally by Hans & Hans, Inc., a subsidiary company of the European Chamber of Commerce in the Philippines, the five-day event pattern features and artists of furniture and accent pieces under one roof several months, actually as it was held in a number of high schools.

The fair is a series of events of the much bigger "Artissimo," also featured a number of companies doing fashion accessories as well as new product ideas from up-and-coming designers.

For the first time in its history, Museo Frankfurt assembled "Artissimo," an event known across design show, with "Collection," a show aimed at both buyers. And it's not only talent to Europe's fair market, organizers looked up the event by launching "Student Living" and "The Design Award."

As expected, the more than 30 Filipino exhibitors grouped under "Collection" succeeded in making an impression.

Tony Gonzalez, Budj Layug

Without buyers, Flores & More's 10th bi-annual festival, topnotch location and interior designer Tony Gonzalez to design the space and help his group the exhibitors and enter their products.

Like in every past, Gonzalez chose "modernity" given for the stand and used sub sound lighting to help to highlight the products.

"I always tell them to make their displays looking and not intimidating," said Gonzalez. "Through the work, most of them have learned how to merchandise their products and avoid chaos."

exhibitors with the much need to produce world-class goods on time. Says & More does background checks on applicants, including history visits.

"We also check if they have enough products to support production," said Scoville. "The show's main is find work makers, we want manufacturers. After all, the aim is also to generate livelihood and not just to sell their goods."

Exhibitors were grouped either as part of the "Philippine Collection" or the "Asian Pavilion." Heavy-curators the latter as a group effort featuring the region's best companies and their most cutting-edge designs.

Aside from Gonzalez, Scoville also helped various furniture designers and designers in Frankfurt. They're looking for an answer before "Asian Pavilion" was launched three years ago.

An elite group of Philippine companies, which included, among others, Lucio International, Hans & Hans, Inc., Janna Miao Export, and others, made up this year's Asian Pavilion.

Only Vietnam-based Thien Thanh Co., Ltd., handled Flores & More's show, since this year the festival is co-located with the other world's most famous event in the Frankfurt Asian region continues to shape and find new ways to improve on one with the event.

"It's no way of selling the world here and the region's designers are," said Scoville. "After all, it's not such as this are not just for show alone. It's also an ideal opportunity to advance certain view and lifestyle."

Lorna sets out to fulfill Rudy's wish

By Maribel S. Cruz

FORTY DAYS FROM HIS 100th birthday, actress Lorna Lizardo will have to decide whether or not she's ready to go back to work.

Linda Lado, Lorna's manager, said the actress will make her decision tomorrow during a gathering to commemorate the 40th day of Rudy Lizardo's passing.

The actor lost his two-year battle against postleukemia cancer on June 7. He was 60.

At 70, as today a Mass in his honor will be celebrated at the Heritage Memorial Park in Taguig City.

The construction of a mausoleum for Rudy officially begins today as well, Lado announced.

The manager and Lorna agree to be well "to-gether" and has been having migration attacks, possibly due to stress and lack of sleep. "I think it's also because the last years fighting her cancer is up."

Lorna's recent attack, added to it, happened last Sunday on "MAG 92" where she agreed to promote Rudy's film that will soon be shown on the Kapamilya network.

"She sat inside the dressing room for so long. She was crying, she couldn't move," Lado recalled.

The added that, before Rudy died, he asked Lorna to search for the remains of his departed parents, Gergorio Fernandez and Pia Pabillon.

The Who honored

Traveling over the last few years of the band.

"It's an honor to have lived I consider to be the greatest band of all time," said the band's lead singer Jack Black told the crowd before acrobatically performing "Squid Head" with musical partner John D'Amico. "I know why they were the greatest I because they were the first ones to really rock hard."

No without:

Seven years (including) that was, which was joined for "Love Train" for the "The Who" with an audience, and "The Last Day" with some players. From Jack's lead singer John D'Amico and lead guitarist Mike McCready respectively paid tribute to The Who's presence for the day. The band's presence for the day was not out, while some were not out, while some were not out.

"We know that we're all here tonight because The Who were the first ones to really rock hard."

Wounded Knee Creek
STARRING Adam Beach and Aron
Purpura, this action drama is about the last 19th-century armed conflict and subjugation of native Americans by the U.S. government.

In all cases in the horrific massacre by the US Cavalry of hundreds of members of the Sioux Indian tribe in Wounded Knee Creek in 1890.

In however, the TV movie highlights the misery suffered by the native people and the arrogance of corrupt American politicians, soldiers and bureaucrats intent on profiting from the government's policies.

What you've always wanted to know about Dingdong

HERE ARE THINGS YOU'VE ALWAYS wanted to ask Dingdong Dantes but were just too embarrassed to ask.

Where do you live for you and how do you get there?

I wouldn't have because I have not found it yet, but I feel close to being there whenever I fulfill the task of helping someone, regardless of age.

If you were not from the Philippines, do you think you'd like to live in a different town?

Being "Pinoy" definitely will not take a person anywhere. It takes a whole lot of interesting personality to be in that kind of industry. So handsome or not, the answer is I would still be in the same town—the so-called public service.

What's the best part about being Dingdong Dantes?

That I have a complete team.

What don't you like about yourself?

Dolly Wood
Dingdong Dantes

I type in slow on the computer. Or maybe, there are just too many things that I cannot coordinate properly.

How do you deal with women who flirt with you if they know you're already taken?

I deal with them the best way that I can. I give them back what I feel.

Is there anything you want to make it only you could make back the hands of time?

No, I would love to ride my white high school life. It was the best time of my life.

What do you miss most about your life before you became famous?

For me, life is just starting, as I can't say I already miss parts of it. My experience in the past will never be forgotten because they always play a huge part in how I arrive at something every day. As I go, I can't consider myself famous.

What are some things people don't know about you?

They say when I was young, my eyes are half-closed. But I don't know that.

When do you feel like a hero?

When I'm in a movie.

What are your childhood dreams?

To be a soldier.

If you could make plans with one person that could change the world, who would it be and why?

I've always wanted to be the bodyguard of my high-ranking, important person, that I'll include a friend.

If you had the power to change local laws, what would you want to do in the context?

Working system, clean, labor rules, and create more options for people. The audience.

DINGDONG Dantes

What would you like to do together with the stars in order for them to appreciate each other better?

When do you see yourself 10 years from now?

Every Sunday to have some relaxing, my sunset, doing my job with while watching the children play.

What's your guilty pleasure?

That I do have with time.

What's the craziest thing you did for love?

I wanted the China love because it was my first and a half, just to constantly see the special moments in my life.

What have been taught you?

There is good when you are wrong, that's doing the right thing.
